

Polsinelli Promotes Jeremy Miller to Chief Information Officer

(Dec. 6, 2023) Am Law 100 firm Polsinelli is pleased to announce that Jeremy Miller has been promoted to Chief Information Officer (CIO). Miller has been with the firm since 2022 as the Director of IT Infrastructure & Transformation.

As CIO, he will oversee the firm's Information Technology and Information Security functions to streamline business operations while assuming responsibility for the implementation of emerging technologies to improve and enhance the firm's performance in multiple areas across all 22 offices.

With more than 20 years of experience, Miller previously held roles spanning diverse industry verticals, including legal, health care, manufacturing, technology and the public sector.

"During his time at the firm, Jeremy has demonstrated clear leadership skills," said Chase Simmons, CEO & Chairman of Polsinelli. "He is an excellent fit for the CIO role displaying not only the technical skills and leadership required but he also already knows the firm which will allow for a seamless transition."

Miller shared his enthusiasm, stating: "I am excited to step into the role of CIO and lead our technology initiatives across the firm. As we navigate this rapidly evolving landscape, I look forward to collaborating across our multi-disciplinary teams and championing innovative pursuits further enabling excellence in service to our clients."

One of Miller's first initiatives has been the creation of a new position dedicated to artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning (ML). This strategic move enhances Polsinelli's client service offerings by integrating cutting-edge technology into the firm's practices. Ashley Shipman will drive this initiative and has been promoted to Director of User Experience and Advanced Technologies based on her impressive track record and expertise within legal technology services. This initiative underscores the firm's focus on continual integration of high-tech solutions into the core of its legal operations.
