

Polsinelli Adds Health Care Litigator Adam Wentland in Los Angeles

(July 31, 2026) Polsinelli is pleased to announce that Adam G. Wentland has joined the firm's Los Angeles office as a shareholder in its Health Care Litigation Practice, further expanding the firm's health care litigation bench following the additions of Laura B. Angelini in Boston and Benjamin Wallfisch in Denver. His arrival also builds on Polsinelli's continued West Coast growth, including the recent addition of Brian Willbur in San Francisco.

Wentland brings significant experience representing health care clients in managed care and payor disputes, including pursuit of claims through arbitrations and litigation against national insurers. He also advises hospitals and medical staffs in connection with the credentialing and peer review of its practitioners and medical staff governance matters. Wentland further counsels clients regarding government investigations, whistleblower retaliation and HIPAA and state privacy matters.

"Adam has spent his career assisting clients resolve difficult disputes that can disrupt provider relationships and health care operations if not carefully handled," said Sherri T. Alexander, Chair of Polsinelli's Health Care Litigation Practice. "This experience adds meaningful depth to our team in an area where clients need practical judgment with litigation skills."

Wentland also advises health care clients on business and operational issues that often carry significant legal risk, including, payor contracting, hospital closures, entity formation, commercial leasing and corporate director conflicts.

[Quote from Wentland]

Wentland earned his J.D. from William & Mary School of Law and his B.A., magna cum laude, from Illinois Wesleyan University.

Polsinelli's Health Care Litigation attorneys represent health care organizations in complex disputes and government investigations across a range of forums, including litigation, arbitration and administrative proceedings. The team includes former Department of Justice attorneys, former state Medicaid fraud unit attorneys and former in-house counsel to private and publicly traded health care companies and is widely recognized by judges, regulators and industry leaders. The practice draws on the firm's nationally recognized Health Care Department to address matters involving Medicare, Medicaid, HIPAA and other regulatory issues.
