

Polsinelli Represents Orbital Sentry on its Pre-Seed Financing

(Aug. 05, 2026) Polsinelli congratulates its client Orbital Sentry on its pre-seed funding round. Orbital Sentry is a deep tech startup building persistent infrared imaging systems for geosynchronous orbit (GEO). Orbital Sentry's platform is designed to deliver continuous, high-sensitivity infrared monitoring from GEO, closing a critical gap in Earth observation, where legacy systems are unable to provide insights at the speed of world events.

The round was led by Ridgeline and with participation from Superorganism and Hustle Fund. These investor portfolios reflect Orbital Sentry's dual-use commercial and defense potential. This Pre-Seed round will fund the initial development of the imaging sensor and expansion of the company's early commercial and government partnerships.

More information about the financing can be obtained here.

The Polsinelli team involved in the transaction included Medical Devices & Mechanical Engineering Patent Prosecution Chair Peter G. Thurlow, Shareholder Zack Strange and Dayonni Phillips.
