Aaron Ogunro is an associate in the Technology Transactions and Data Privacy practice group. His practice primarily focuses on data privacy and security compliance with specific focus on US and EU regulatory regimes, including the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA), and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA).

He advises clients ranging from start-ups to multinational public companies across various industries on how to identify and manage risks with respect to data usage, maintenance, and disclosures, including in the context of global deal-making and other commercial transactions. Aaron conducts privacy and data security due diligence, negotiates privacy and data security provisions and addendums, and prepares internal and public-facing data privacy policies and procedures.

Aaron also assists clients with sensitive cybersecurity incidents, including coordinating forensic investigations and ransom negotiations and advising clients on their legal obligations.
