Amy Grant is part of an experienced team of legal professionals assisting clients in their pursuit of entitlements and permits in the areas of real estate development, land use and zoning and public financing programs. Amy has significant experience in handling complex and difficult to obtain entitlements and permits for real estate development projects including large mixed-use development, major office and industrial parks, retail shopping centers, warehouse and distribution centers, multi-family, senior living facilities and entertainment venues.

With more than 21 years of experience, Amy is keenly aware that for a client's project to become reality, local and state approvals are not only required, but also must be in a form that makes the project feasible.
