Deja Williams is a member of the firm's Health Care Alignment & Organization practice, where she supports health systems, hospitals and provider organizations on regulatory compliance, operational strategy and physician alignment matters. She brings prior experience as a Polsinelli Healthcare Law Fellow, where she advised on legal issues involving hospital operations, patient care and allied health professions.

In addition to her legal experience, Deja served as a clinical assistant professor at the University of Montana, teaching graduate-level courses in social work practice, policy and community systems. She also completed a social work internship with Michigan Medicine's adult inpatient psychiatric unit, supporting patient discharge planning and multidisciplinary care coordination. Drawing on her clinical and academic background, Deja brings a grounded approach to her work with health care clients.
