Maddie Sabourin supports Polsinelli's managed care litigation attorneys on matters across the fast-changing health care industry, assisting providers and hospital systems as they navigate complex business and legal challenges.

She works with hospitals, health systems, physician groups, home health agencies and long-term care providers. Her work focuses on managed care disputes and reimbursement litigation, in both the in- and out-of-network context, in addition to litigation arising under surprise billing laws.

Maddie works alongside Polsinelli attorneys to fashion effective and innovative legal strategies for clients.
