Marcus Tom supports clients in commercial real estate finance transactions, assisting with reviewing and drafting loan documents, conducting due diligence and managing the flow of complex deals. His experience spans a range of financing structures and property types, and he works closely with Polsinelli attorneys to guide clients through each stage of the transaction lifecycle.

In addition to his real estate work, Marcus represents private equity clients in acquisition and investment transactions, with a particular focus on the healthcare industry. He assists with corporate diligence, document drafting and deal management, helping clients navigate the unique regulatory and structural considerations involved in health care-focused M&A.
