Mary Buckley Tobin focuses on regulatory issues affecting health care providers, including hospitals and health systems, home health agencies, pharmacies and physician groups. She advises clients on a variety of complex regulatory and compliance issues, including licensure and enrollment, telehealth reimbursement rules and health care privacy and security. Mary uses her regulatory knowledge to structure arrangements, advise clients at all stages of transactions and assist clients in responding to and remediating a wide range of compliance issues.

Mary has experience providing covered entities with regulatory support related to the 340B drug program. Mary also has advised health care providers on a wide range of pharmacy regulatory issues, including issues related to non-resident pharmacies, shipping controlled substances and remote processing of prescriptions.

Prior to joining Polsinelli, Mary practiced law as an associate at a Chicago based law firm and worked as a health care consultant at a national consulting firm, focusing on clinical research billing compliance. While in law school, she served as a Beazley Institute Health Law Fellow, health law legal writing tutor and was an articles editor on the Loyal University Chicago Law and a member of Annals of Health Law.
