Max Ain represents private equity sponsors and their portfolio companies, public and private companies, and financial institutions in capital markets and commercial lending transactions, with a focus on debt financings. He structures and negotiates leveraged acquisition financings, asset-based lending facilities, fund-level credit facilities, and senior and subordinated debt arrangements, including first- and second-lien, mezzanine and bridge financings. He also advises clients on financing-related aspects of in- and out-of-court restructurings, bringing a practical understanding of capital structure and lender dynamics to complex situations.
