Sarah Kocher enjoys navigating the ever-evolving and complex healthcare regulatory environment. From experience as both external and in-house counsel, she has an in-depth and nuanced perspective on the challenges facing health care systems and other healthcare providers. She brings a practical approach to these challenges, and has worked closely with health system executives to operationalize strategies for compliance.

Sarah most recently served as in-house associate counsel at the University of Rochester Medical Center.

Sarah's experience allows her to partner with hospitals, academic medical centers, pharmacies, and other clients in identifying, managing, and minimizing risks across an array of healthcare regulatory matters in a tailored and efficient manner. Key practice areas:

- Regulatory and reimbursement compliance
- Telehealth
- Behavioral health
- Fraud and abuse
- State licensure
- Internal and government investigations
- Pandemic response and preparedness
